DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-33 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1,10-15,17,32 and 33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vawter et al (PN 6,229,947).

Figure 17 illustrates a semiconductor laser having a tapered waveguide for coupling to an optical fiber, the waveguide having three portions a wide portion (75), a tapered middle portion (76) and a narrow portion (78), as described in column 6 lines 30-39.

Figures 11A and 11B illustrate the far-field beam profile with a peak at 0 degrees and a constant slope, as described in column 9 lines 1-14.

Column 9 lines 15-25 disclose suppression of modes higher than the fundamental mode.

Figures 2A-2C, 13A and 13B illustrate different widths for the tapered waveguide, as 2.4,1.2,0.7,3.0 and 1.0  $\mu\text{m}$ , respectively, which are within close range of the recited widths of applicants invention.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the semiconductor laser of Vawter et al by changing the size of the device. Furthermore, In Gardner v. TEC Systems, Inc., 725 F.2d 1338, 220 USPQ 777 (Fed. Cir. 1984), cert. denied, 469 U.S. 830, 225 USPQ 232 (1984), the Federal Circuit held that, where the only difference between the prior art and the claims was a recitation of relative dimensions of the claimed device and a device having the claimed relative dimensions would not perform differently than the prior art device, the claimed device was not patentably distinct from the prior art device.

Claims 1-9,16-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Vawter et al (PN 6,229,947), as applied to claims 1 and 17 above, and in view of Ventrudo (PN 6,058,128) and Miki et al (PN 6,094,515).

Regarding claims 1-9,17-31,

Vawter et al discloses coupling the laser system to a fiber, but fails to disclose the fiber having a wavelength selection grating.

Ventrudo discloses coupling a laser system to a fiber having a grating.

Ventrudo illustrates in figure 1 a semiconductor laser (11) coupled via lenses (22,24) to an optical fiber (31), which contains a rare earth active gain medium (30) and a Bragg grating (34) positioned at 2cm to 3cm from the laser facet and having a reflectivity not exceeding 10%, as described in column 4 lines 19-67. In the abstract and columns 5 and 7 Ventrudo discloses the grating is provided at distance from the laser for causing the system to switch between the coherence collapse and coherence state.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in art at the time the invention was made to couple the laser system of Vawter et al with the fiber grating of Ventrudo because Ventrudo discloses coupling a fiber grating to laser system which will provide a broad band of wavelengths in a communications system.

Regarding claim 16,

The use of temperature controller within a semiconductor laser coupled to fiber waveguide is well known in the art, as shown in figure 2A and disclosed in column 4 line 13 of Miki et al.
